Since being elected to be part of the General Assembly, what have you done to represent the student voice in the chamber and in other relevant circumstances?

As a newly elected Senator for the General Assembly, this past October, my endeavors to represent the student body have started to pickup only recently. Before I became a senator I took my time to survey around and ask individuals living in different housing rates their concerns and policy changes that they would like to see. Through this process, I was able to foresee myself into the Senator position while having an idea on how to create change in specific sectors. For instance, following my survey I realized that many issues centered around safety but more specifically, dorm safety and dorm accessibility. This survey was further justified when I spent a little time hearing back from students in the OSU oval on October 26th. Many expressed that lighting, dorm doors - key system concerns, side doors closing early, and more around safety were brought to several constituents' concerns. As a senator I plan to focus on the safety of our students. Apart from the safety issue, I would also like to work towards diversity and inclusion especially when it comes to dining halls and other accessibility differences between the north and south campuses. For example, accessibility to the student medical center was something expressed by many residing on north campus closer to high street. Being an on-campus senator has handed me a fortunate opportunity to work with any discrepancy given in society and I am thrilled to be a part of a process that supports positive social change for the students and people of The Ohio State University.

Thank you.
