Since being elected to be part of the General Assembly, what have you done to represent the student voice in the chamber and in other relevant circumstances?

In my role as a member of the general assembly, I've been dedicated to actively representing the student voice in various capacities. First and foremost, I've reached out to students in my classes, seeking their input and suggestions on potential areas for improvement on a college campus here in Columbus. This direct engagement has been instrumental in understanding the concerns and priorities of my peers. Furthermore, I've been doing some meaningful conversations with leaders of clubs and academic organizations, aiming to gain insights from their communities and shared experiences. This interaction has provided valuable exposure to areas I may not initially have been familiar, enabling me to identify where the most significant changes are needed at The Ohio State University and what can be a reasonable achievement during my time in GA. In order to ensure a successful representation, upheld a structured approach to managing my ideas and initiatives as a senator. Additionally, I've emphasize the importance of communication and collaboration by consistently updating and involving my fellow student government members. I firmly believe that this collective effort is essential for achieving the most significant progress for a student body. My ultimate aim remains to align our policies and decisions
