General Assembly Constituency Report 1

I have found that one of my most powerful tools is my outgoing personality as I seek to reach out to others. Being a member of this large community I consistently find myself in a position to be able to communicate with my constituency. I frequent buildings, locations and organizations where my major is often present and in those situations I engage with my community, offer my business cards, and schedule coffee dates to discuss issues that I can assist with and work on. Besides speaking with others when possible, I have also actively sought out one-on-one meetings with leaders in the community to discuss joint efforts and initiatives that we can collaborate on. This has really presented itself in the kosher-halal dietary restriction work I have been doing with University Dining. I look forward to pursuing this (and other items) in the future.
